

Beyond Language Barriers: Strategies to Engage with Latinx Communities

Tuesday, August 1st, 12 - 1 pm Eastern

Promoting Innovation Virtual Idea Symposium via ZOOM

For more information and register online:
https://bit.ly/Innovation_Session_Four or access via the QR code here:

In-service credit will be available for Extension agents for each live Zoom event you attend.

Cintia Aguilar and Roberto Rosales will provide best practices, tools, and resources to help your Extension program increase engagement with the Latinx community—whether you are in ag, food and nutrition, community and rural development, or 4-H, and whether you speak Spanish or not. The Latinx community makes up 4.2% of Kentucky's population and will continue to grow. It is important to recognize that the Latinx community is not a monolith, and learning how to engage them in Extension programs will contribute to building integrated communities.

Presenters:

Cintia Aguilar, Latino Programs Manager - Community and Rural Development for North Carolina State Extension, CALS, NC State University

Roberto Rosales, Program Coordinator, Farmworker Health and Safety Educator for North Carolina State Extension, CALS, NC State University

Host:

Nicole Breazeale, PhD, Associate Extension Professor, Department of Community and Leadership Development at the University of Kentucky

Spend your lunchtime with us for the Promoting Innovation Virtual Idea Symposium, a lunch-and-learn Zoom series with national speakers and experts in areas related to Extension in the Department of Community and Leadership Development at the University of Kentucky. Hosted by the Extension faculty in the UK Department of Community and Leadership Development, the once-a-week sessions will take place in July and August. Learn more at cld.ca.uky.edu/extension.

Cintia Aguilar

Roberto Rosales

Nicole Breazeale